

ANECDOTES AND ART

The American Civil War was the greatest conflict in our nation's history. In just four years, over three million men fought in over 10,000 places across the country and more than 600,000 died. This tragic war has been a subject for artists since the first shots were fired at Fort Sumter in April 1861. Today artists such as Don Troiani, Mort Künstler, Rick Reeves, David Wright, J.N. Muir, and Brad Schmill continue to portray the war's defining moments in stunning paintings and sculpture. They depict the heroism, glory and tragedy of this struggle of brother against brother. Join Robert Hyde as he leads you through the war, painting by painting, sharing his personal knowledge of the people and the battles from both a local and regional perspective.
